SENIOR SCENES

PUBLISHED BY
CLASS OF FEBRUARY
1930

DEDICATION

*As a token of our high esteem and grateful appreciation of all that he has done in our behalf, we, the class of February, 1930, hereby dedicate this annual to our friend
and adviser,*

MR. JAMES P. HAUPIN

FOREWORD

In this, our Year Book, we have faithfully tried to portray all those activities which make our school life at B. H. S. so varied and so full. We hope that this book will serve as a vivid record of the days which members of the Class of February '30 have spent in "the home of wholesome competition."

SENIOR FOREWORD

*As the sun sets on the close of our days at
B. H. S. we reflect in our hearts the glow of warm friendships and the thrill of achievement,
and we pause to regret the parting of the ways.
But the wonder of our Tomorrows beckons us
on; there is more beyond the great horizon.*

WILLIAM H. PIERSON, JR.

"Bill"

*A pirate captain, bold and strong,
Deep in his thoughts, as his legs are long.*

Scum! Scum!! Scum!!! (That last Scum uttered with great conviction!) These are the by-words of none other than our nautical Captain Applejack himself, Bill Pierson.

Bill is skipper not only of the senior play but of the class as well. As Captain Applejack he was one of the big guns in its success. And as skipper of the class he has been an excellent president.

The task of leading rests easily and naturally on Bill's shoulders. He was captain of the track team last year, and he is president of the Glee Club.

Bill is going to be an artist. He has already made favorable progress in landscape painting. One of his works was accepted in a recent art exhibition held at the Montclair Art Museum.

During vacations, Bill goes to New Hampshire, where the mountain scenery appeals to him very strongly. He also likes Boston, which has an appeal of a different kind. If it's as good as he says it is, we sympathize.

Bill will continue his education at the Yale School of Fine Arts, with the intention of making painting his life work.

He is a member of the English, Chem, Math, Hi-Y and Dramatic Clubs, of the last of which he is vice president.

Great things are expected of Bill at Yale and in later life, too!

N. BRICE BANKS

"Brik"

*To many talents he doth lay claim,
One will surely lead to fame.*

Brik is vice president of our class and one of the associate editors of "Senior Scenes." He was voted the best all-round student in the senior class as well as the best dressed.

To insure the success, financially, of the senior play, a wide-awake business manager had to be chosen. Brik was our business manager and he did a good job.

In the way of athletics, he excels in tennis. He is a consistently good player and last year he was a member of the varsity tennis team that went through the season with one defeat.

Oh, yes, when it comes to wisecracks, Brik is right there. He certainly has a way all his own when it comes to pulling "fast ones."

As president of the Latin Club, he has done a lot to pep up the meetings. He is president of the High School Savings Bank, a member of the Hi-Y, Math, English, and X Clubs, and he served on the Junior Prom committee.

Brik is very near the head of his class in his studies and he expects to go to Dartmouth in September with his pal, Jack Stansfield.

His ambition is to be an author. Judging from some of the short stories he has written, we think he has chosen the right vocation.

CHARLES L. HUGHES

"Poukie—Charlie"

*An infant mien, a cherubic smile,
A deserving lad without any guile.*

Above you see a picture of our honored class secretary. We think he deserves the position because he has always been full of class spirit and a hard worker. All through our four years he has been a champion ticket seller. He is one of the three who sold the most tickets for the senior play. He was put in charge of the sale of Christmas cards and took care of his job ably.

Charlie believes in making himself heard. He narrowly missed being elected the noisiest in the class, in the class vote. In Washington, he insisted upon keeping us awake when we finally did decide to turn in at 4 A. M. It was while Charlie was leaning out the window trying to throw water on the girls that a cop in the street told us to shut up.

Poukie worked hard during the play. He was assistant business manager and since we were trying out the new system of tickets, he was kept busy. He was also one of the "super villains" of the play. Most of the swords and knives used in the second act were his.

Charlie is a good student and will probably be an honor pupil. Math is his favorite subject. He is also an active clubman. He belongs to the Hi-Y, Chemistry Club, Math Club, and Sphinx Society.

In regard to his future, Charlie has selected banking as his vocation. He is another one of our classmates who intend to enter college.

CHARLES P. GRANT

"Pemberton"

*He exclaimed as he toiled through the small weary hours of the night,
"Meadows! No! Say that I'm not at home. I have humor to write."*

Meet Pemberton, the man who has caused many thousands of copies of The Student Prints to be sold. We fear that without him that publication would long since have been bankrupt. Humor pours from his lips and pen in a steady stream. Even women wilt under the power of his personality. He is, and deservedly, the most popular member of our class.

Perhaps another reason for his popularity is the fact that he owns a car—pardon, I mean Chevrolet—by name, Gertie. When he runs into 105 in the morning exactly at 8:15 amid loud applause, he is heard to exclaim chivalrously, "Ladies and gentlemen, I owe my success to Gertie."

He is without doubt the busiest member of our class. As property manager of the play, he did the most work, was reviled most, got the least credit and the least sleep. Poor Gertie couldn't stand the strain and her poor old block cracked.

Besides being class treasurer now and vice president in 11B, Charlie is president of the Chemistry Club, humor and art editor of The Student Prints and a member of the Hi-Y, Latin Club, X Club, Math Club, English Club, and Glee Club.

His ambition is to be a mighty bio-chemist. He will enter Union next September and thereby honor that university as it has never before been honored.

ROBERT L. ANDRUS

"Shrimp"

*Bob has his eye on a certain femme;
"Ma cherie," he says, and she, ahem!*

Fellow students, you are very fortunate, for the above student informs us that he will be here till June taking a P. G. course, and we don't mean a study in P. & G. soap, either.

Bob made a mean pirate in the senior play although he was usually to be found sleeping back stage between the acts with a trig book in his hands. But then, pirates are a sleepy bunch, now aren't they?

Shrimp is taking two maths this term, trig and solid, enough to put a curve in anyone's cranium, but he seems to be struggling under the load with favorable progress. This incidentally accounts for the vague look which is usually seen in his eye.

Annapolis seems to be Bob's ambition in the way of colleges. However, he has selected Montclair Teachers College as second choice.

And, oh yes, we almost forgot, Bob is one of those hard working three and a half year students. Although he has been with our class for only a year and a half he has become quite popular with its honorable members.

No one noticed Bob much before we went to Washington, since he was such a quiet sort of chap, but at Washington, well, Bob certainly showed plenty of energy (trig and solid forgotten).

He is an active member of the Hi-Y and is present at most of the meetings.

MARY CASALE

"Mare"

*What makes you come to school so early?
Pray tell us if his hair is curly.*

Mare is usually the first one at school in the morning. She helps the janitors open up B. H. S., and always sits waiting patiently (?) for Miss Smith to open 105. We think there must be someone who also comes real early in the morning. What would happen if Mary overslept?

Our one lone red-headed girl is Mary. Does her disposition match her hair? Ask Helen, she knows. And now that Helen is mentioned it is impossible to resist conjuring from our distant childhood the famous nursery rhyme:

*"And everywhere that Mary went
The lamb was sure to go."*

Of course Helen is not exactly lamb-like, but she and Mary are practically inseparable.

In the bank Mary is forever hopping back and forth. We don't know whether she is working or not, but we'll let it go at that. Her title is that of Assistant Cashier.

Mary is president of the Spanish Club and vice-president of the Commercial Club. On the basketball team she played forward, and on The Student Prints staff she is much in demand as a typist.

Oh, there is one other thing, we think Mary must have a boy friend because she is so likeable. But so far, even Helen has been unable to find out about him.

EDWARD BRISTOL

"Eddie"

*Listen, for I'm going to speak;
Know me, for I'm far from meek.*

Gaze, dear freshmen and others, upon the commanding countenance of the class orator, and we don't mean probably. How do you like the couplet? Sounds just like Eddie, doesn't it!

This masterful mullet (pardon me, Meadows, you'll just have to turn off the radio. I can't concentrate) this masterful personage was stage manager of our play. Eddie was usually to be seen back stage waving his arms and shouting, "Now, I'm gonna get sore, you guys!" or yelling at Jack.

Eddie is organizations editor of this annual, and no one has had as little sleep as he during the process of composing it, save Nancy.

He is the light of the P. D. class. When he gets up to speak, everything stops; even the birds outside stop singing to give Eddie full sway. In English class it's the same, except that the "mullets" (Crosby influence) stop muttering. When Miss Smith wants some point in Woolley made clear, she will undoubtedly call on Ed.

Eddie expects to be an M.D. with a degree from the University of..... You might put that down in your little note book, Meadows. Any time we need a doctor, why, there's Ed. Bristol.

FLORENCE DALY

"Flo"

*Although it's true she's rather small,
That doesn't have to matter at all.*

Florence comes from Brookdale, but she's far from rustic. In fact, she has what no one with a trace of rusticity could possibly have; an atmosphere of mystery. We of the Annual Board tried to show our versatility by becoming sleuths on the trail of facts about Florence Daly, but we were all unsuccessful; we knew as much as when we started, and would have done better to be satisfied with the really manifold duties of that persecuted tribe, the editors.

Drawing our deductions from her demure demeanor in class, however (and now we'll get back on the job as editors, searching for just the right word to describe a personality in one telling stroke) Florence seems a quiet, dreamy, demure little demoiselle, quaint and piquant. Her small stature and slight build enhance her attractiveness. For the senior play, she was a very charming usher.

Well, we've done our best at guessing. We may be wrong, but we think we're right, and we finally wish Florence the best of luck in anything she undertakes.

JOSEPH W. CANTLIE

"Bud"

*A pound of butter and a can of peas;
Wait on us, Bud, will you please?*

We always thought Joe was a quiet chap—before we went to Washington, and to Mr. Haupin's farm for the senior picnic. Joe played conductor on the train to Washington and got on the conductor's nerves. But you can't blame Joe; he doesn't get many rides, as witness the fact that in the dining car he had a lot of difficulty conveying food to his mouth at sixty miles an hour. The train gave a lurch just as Joe was in the act of partaking of a fork full of lettuce. The result was that the aforementioned food landed mostly in Joe's eye. Tst, Tst.

Joe was one of our handsome ushers during the senior play. He was supposed to be a pirate but was unable to because of his work.

Joe is one of these A. & P. cowboys. He tells us his favorite class is P. D. because he gets more sleep there than in any other. Joe is also one of the "Four Horsemen," and may be seen with them galloping around before school.

Joe and Bill Pierson have worked their experiments together for two years both in physics and in chemistry. Judging from the kick he got out of the hydrogen sulphide experiment, Joe likes to fool with chemicals.

Newark Tech will be honored by Joe in September.

MARJORIE DICKSON

"Marge"

*Sweet as the May in every way;
Fair as the day, and always gay.*

Open your eyes, boys, good and wide, for this is Marge, the class Sheba. Some stepper! And how she can use her blinkers! Don't miss her intriguing laugh. But, all kiddin' aside, she's a mighty nice girl.

Nothing ever ruffles her good temper. When one of the class bad boys snatches away her pocketbook, she never says anything more violent than, "Give it to me, Charlie, please!" He always does, eventually.

In Washington Marge was a regular Juliet—balcony and all. She had a beautiful soft low whistle, which added to her siren allurements. She also made a wonderful target for soap. In these respects she put something over on the original Juliet.

The class honored Marge by making her their Student Council representative and the Student Council in turn made her vice president. She is also president of the Girl Reserves and of the French Club, as well as a member of the English and Chemistry Clubs.

And now, fellow students, having praised Marge up so highly, we are pleased to inform you that you will not lose her company by graduation; she will be back for P. G. Afterwards, however, N. J. C. will be graced by her presence.

JOHN H. DANIEL

"Jack"

*A quiet lad, this English youth,
A hunchback in the play, for sooth!*

"No s on the end of my name. Call me Jack."

These are Jack's usual words when making a new acquaintance. And it may be mentioned that he has made many in the last few years. When he first came from England, it was hard to understand him but now he speaks like any of his classmates and has won a place in the heart of each. Although he was voted to be the most innocent member of our class, Jack knows the meaning of the word "Whoopee" and is always ready to share in its manufacture. Jack's popularity, sociability and cleverness are proved by the fact that he was initiated into the secrets of the X Club.

As a crazy hunchback pirate, Jack has no equal. The day before the play he descended into the cafeteria and so terrorized the girls that most of them ran from the room screaming. When he approached Miss Miller, she almost fainted. Jack was not only a pirate in the play, but also assistant stage manager.

In Washington, Jack entertained the girls with tales of the English countryside. He seems to get along with girls as well as he does with fellows. He is a great math student and is also interested in art. He intends to become an architect and we think he is well fitted for his chosen vocation.

LAURA FENSTERMACHER

"Fency"

*This Valeska dame with the frightened eyes
Was pursued across Europe by Russian spies.*

Laura is the most popular girl in our class. By class vote, she is also the best dancer, the most carefree, the hungriest, and the possessor of the best haircomb. We have noticed that she is always well-dressed and one of the social lights of the class. She may be seen at every school dance.

In the senior play, Fency played the part of Anna Valeska, the beautiful and tragic Russian danseuse. Her acting was excellent and there is no doubt about the fact that she fully deserved to be cast as the leading lady. She has been active in other things that the class has taken up. She was a member of the Junior Prom Committee and did her part in making it the best prom in years. Fency is also a member of the Chem Club.

Because of her plenteous experience, Laura is able to give advice to the love-lorn. She and her perpetual escort are well-known and popular everywhere. That little green Chevy sure has its attraction, hasn't it, Laura?

Fency may go to the New Jersey State College for Women in New Brunswick, but we predict a more domestic future for her.

G. EDWIN DARLING, JR.

"Didi-Eddie"

*Unthinking, idle, wild and young,
He laughed, and danced, and talked, and sung.*

Eddie is the class sheik and a boy with a happy disposition. It is said that when the class went to Washington, the nation's capital sat up and took notice when Didi arrived. He certainly looked the part of the typical New Yorker even down to spats and cane.

He was voted the best dancer, which is indeed no lie. Interrogate Jane, if you don't think so. One of his weaknesses is teasing. Two of the girls in his English class will verify this. Oh, yes, Didi also prides himself on being one of the "Four Horsemen."

We predict that Darling and Krenrich, the crooning melody boys, will be a famous vaudeville pair if they should ever follow that line. Their singing (did we say singing?) has been heard so often by the rest of the class and has been so favorably (did we say favorably?) received that nothing but a successful career is predicted for them.

Eddie belongs to the Spanish and Commercial Clubs.

Until the vaudeville stage career materializes, Eddie is going into the business world. The best of luck, Eddie, whatever you do, but a word of advice, don't clap your boss on the back until you're sure of your job.

ELSIE M. FREIDHOF

"Els"

*Elsie's our whiz in English and German,
Besides all other branches of learnin'.*

Elsie is a star pupil in English. The facility with which she obtains A's is an object of admiration to all her class mates. If we all knew as much as Elsie, there would be no worried expressions near report card time.

"Els" is a member of the Home Economics, French, and German Clubs. She holds the office of secretary-treasurer in the German Club. The Student Prints considers Elsie an extremely capable typist. Incidentally, she learned to type at home on her own typewriter.

One of her favorite hobbies is reading. What would you do, Els, if the library burned down?

After leaving B. H. S. Elsie intends to enter Upsala where she will major in German, preparatory to teaching it. If Elsie commands her pupils' respect as she does ours, she will certainly go far teaching, for although she does not mingle much except with her particular friends "Els" is always pleasant when approached and we all have a high opinion of her.

FREDERICK W. DRESCH

"Fred"

*A hunter, but not of girls. Alas
Who will bring him to this pass?*

Fred now resides in Cedar Grove, but we do not think of him as a stranger because, during his first three high school years, he lived in Bloomfield. Only people who do not know Freddie think that he's bashful. He seems bashful because he does not pry into other people's affairs. The reason he is not seen in female company is that he considers women designing and fickle.

His favorite recreation is hunting, and since he lives in the country he has ample opportunity of satisfying his lust for this sport. Fred would rather hunt than do anything else.

Although Freddie hardly ever is seen taking a book home, he manages to get by easily and frequently is exempt. He is interested in economical and social subjects and consequently enjoys P. D. His ambition is to be a college-trained forester. Our personal opinion is that he will become a big game hunter. Frederick is also known for his illuminating remarks on the more serious things in life. Deep stuff, huh, Fred? He reminds us of that popular song, "I'm a thinker, aren't we all?"

He is a member of the Chemistry and X Clubs.

ELLEN H. HAINES

"Ella"

*A sunny face, two soft blue eyes;
A merry smile, both pleasant and wise.*

Ellen, with a round, plump face, and soft blue eyes, was fondly voted one of the class babies, and was attributed with the characteristics that go with such a title—innocence, bashfulness, and quietness. The class almost decided to call her the man-hater, but it is hard to imagine Ellen hating anyone, especially when she intends to become a nurse. Because of her aversion to being teased, certain bad boys in the class consider her an especially fit subject for it.

Ellen is Verna's side-kick. The two of them are always together. They work in the chem lab together, they belong to the English and Chemistry Clubs together, and together they will go in training at the Nurses' Training School of the Homeopathic Hospital in East Orange.

Ellen is really a very capable person. None of us doubt that she will be a successful nurse, for at school she is always dependable, pleasant, and sympathetic.

JAMES FORREST

"Jimmy"

*Quiet taste, no particular haste;
Pray tell us who is the woman chased?*

"Oh, Lush, is everything as it should be?" Yes, Jimmy, was the handsome butler in the play, and it's a well known fact that he did some fine acting. Do you remember Jimmy's bringing in the pail of water to revive Anna Valeska? Well, that was brought about accidentally, during the giving of the excerpt in the assembly. When Bill sent Lush out for water, he was supposed to bring back a pitcher full, but when the crucial moment came, no pitcher was to be found. Jacob Snyder, Lush's side kick, saved the day by handing him a pail, since it was the only receptacle in sight. Well, it got a big laugh from the audience, and was used during the nights of the play.

Jimmy takes his lessons seriously and manages to get good marks.

His favorite sport is football and he plays a good game. At least he did in the impromptu after school games between the seniors.

Although he is a quiet chap about school, Jimmy was quite the contrary during the Washington trip. He was full of vim, vigor, and pretzels, not to mention ginger ale (consumed in a little quiet midnight party among the boys, on the last night of the trip).

ELLEN NANCY HART

"Nance"

*The joy and pride of the senior class,
A student, a sport, a winsome lass!*

You may have noticed that Nancy, our literary light, is editor-in-chief of The Student Prints and also of this annual. No, it is no accident and it didn't just happen so. She receives high marks, not only in English, but in every other subject that she takes up. She is one of the highest students of our class. Her cleverness is further enhanced by her pleasing personality.

Nancy has been active in every branch of school activities. She is the best girl athlete in the class. For four years she has been a member of her class basketball team and she was a pioneer on the girls' baseball teams. She has also taken honors in track, and was a member of the Gym Team. Nancy has always responded generously to the demands of her class. She is a member of the Girl Reserves, and of the English, French, Latin, and Chemistry Clubs.

In Washington we discovered that she was a delightful companion, daring and ready for anything. How well she can throw water! In the senior play, as Aunt Agatha Whatcombe, she demonstrated that dignity and even haughtiness become her well. Her acting was excellent.

She enters Swarthmore next fall. In conclusion, we might say that she is a fine all-round sport.

A. BERLIN FREDERICKS

"Buck"

*"Women," he says, "I can't stand at all!"
But look out, Buck, you're sure to fall.*

Buck is one of the most congenial members of our class. He is always smiling and in good humor. The class voted him a woman hater, but we are sure when the right girl comes along, he will succumb and, by the way, she'll be a lucky girl.

In the play, Buck played the part of a pirate and between acts shifted scenery. In spite of the fact that Mr. Crosby called the stage crew "a bunch of mullets," Buck managed to do his job speedily and efficiently.

If you want any good football dope, ask Buck. Before the Bloomfield-Montclair game, he plastered Montclair High with "Beat Montclair" signs. In spite of a narrow escape he intends to do it again.

After graduation Buck intends to go into the poultry business until he has enough money to buy a yacht. He then intends to cruise to the South Sea Islands. Watch out for those "hula hula" girls, Buck! They get dangerous when they see manly countenances and sideburns.

Buck's clubs are the Chemistry and the X Clubs.

JOSEPHINE JAEGER

"Jo"

*Jo expects to enter Drake;
A splendid record she will make.*

Jo is another of our prospective stenographers, and for her, too, we would all give high recommendations. She plans to become even more expert along commercial lines by taking courses of Drake's Secretarial School.

Believe it or not, Jo just loves (?) P. D. class. She is always able to answer the questions too, if she happens to hear them during a pause in her conversation with Helen.

We don't hear from Jo very much in English, but when she does recite her words command attention at least from those behind her. (This is due to the fact that when Jo is standing up Miss Smith can plainly see those behind her).

And now we're going to give the Spanish Club a boost; it's the only club to which Jo belongs.

Well, Jo, in conclusion we wish you bon voyage, and godspeed, and loads and loads of luck.

JOHN MAXFIELD HAGUE

"Jack"

*A brilliant valet, Pemmy bath:
A whiz in trig and other math.*

You say your radio fails to operate, hm, better call up Marconi—we mean Jack.

Jack is quite a bug on radio. It's his chief passion. He has built several large ones, and they work. He is the brightest boy in the class, by popular vote.

He was chosen to represent the senior A class in the Student Council and was vice president of our class in 9B. He would have been re-elected in 9A, only he didn't choose to run (apologies to Mr. Coolidge). He is the other male member who has suffered through four years of Latin, and he has never had to take an exam in his life. (There, Meadows, can you say as much?)

Jack did more than his bit for the senior play as chief assistant stage manager. In his debonair, sophisticated manner he would order the other assistants around with that peculiar wave of his hand and that "Philo Vance" talk.

He is vice president of the Chemistry Club and a member of the Latin Club, the Hi-Y, and the Math Club.

He will enter Yale in September, without Pemberton, alas! to become an engineer. We haven't any doubt but what you'll be reading his name in the papers a few years hence.

CATHERINE E. MULVEY

"Katy"

*It's true she hasn't much to say,
But still she's pleasant in her way.*

Although you wouldn't guess it from the openness of her countenance as pictured above, Catherine is one of our class ladies of mystery. When we first tried to write her up for the Annual, we discovered that we didn't know her a bit; we interviewed her friends, and even they were unable to enlighten us much.

They have reported, however, that she is good fun when you once know her, and that she came to B. H. S. from Newark two years ago. She has been finishing out her junior and senior years here.

That's all we know, except that she's quiet and retiring. In English her seat is in the back row, and she never recites unless called on. Thus, you see, even her choice of a seat makes matters harder for us.

Anyhow, whenever we approach Catherine, she is always pleasant. Of course we can't jump at conclusions, but we've got a hunch, and a strong hunch, too, that Catherine is just the one to make some tired business man happy. And if we miss our guess there, Drake's will have prepared her for a successful business career.

WILLIAM GEORGE KRENRICH

"Bill—Drippy"

*A saxophone he likes to trill;
A derby and cane complete the "Bill."*

As you have probably guessed, Bill is a saxophone player. Bill, however, is different from most sax players. He can really play one. And then his raven locks enter into the discussion. To explain, Drippy has the best haircomb of any one in the class. We hope you'll tell us the secret of that well-groomed appearance. It is rumored that Bill has a special compound of his own, the prescription of which is said to read something like this: "Linseed oil and axle grease mixed with a thick paste."

Bill is a quiet fellow in school, but when he is outside he is a changed man.

As one of the heart-throb pirates in the senior play Bill presented a foreboding exterior (Even his hair was out of place).

He is a member of the "Four Horsemen" in which he takes a very active interest. He and Eddie Darling can often be seen together crooning some popular song.

Bill belongs to the Hi-Y, Spanish and Commercial Clubs.

He expects to enter the business world but we have a slinking notion he dreams of becoming a leader or at least a member of some great orchestra, if he should get the chance.

LYDIA NEWMAN

"Lydia"

*Lydia's a girl who is known for her noise,
But that doesn't seem to scare the boys.*

Lydia, one of our most attractive girls, has beautiful, black, curly hair, at once the envy and despair of her straight-haired classmates. Nor is she in any respect "beautiful but dumb." If there is a particularly hard job to be done, Mr. Haupin seems to think first of Lydia as the one to be entrusted with it. And home economics! Boy! That girl can cook. There will be no marital fights over Lydia's cooking. There has never been a time when she was not willing to work for the class, and that is saying a great deal.

We have sometimes wondered at the popularity of the dentist for whom Lydia works after school. Can it be that a part of her service consists in holding the hand of the terrified patient? Her friendly smile and ready laugh would go a long way in brightening the corner even of a dental office. Her constant and pleasing chatter would aid in quieting the patient's nerves.

Lydia was one of our senior play ushers. She also did her part in selling tickets and in selling Christmas cards for the Washington trip.

We do not know what Lydia intends to do after graduation but we are sure that before long she will brighten the home of some happy man.

HAROLD MENDLES

"Shrimp"

*Life depends on a number of things;
Among them a haircomb that to the head clings.*

Mr. Mendles is a nonchalant and rather sophisticated member of our class. He is athletically inclined, and enjoys playing baseball and basketball. During his first two years he went out for baseball. He also plays with the Oriole A. C.

Shrimp was treasurer of our class in our freshman year and is now a member of the Chemistry Club and the Hi-Y. He attends meetings regularly. Since he had gone to Washington with the preceding class, he did not go with our class.

Harold was runner up in the vote for the best haircomb in the class. His haircomb is not the only feature of his good appearance. He is always well dressed and neat. We are inclined to believe that he is a shiek when he gets outside school. We do not know much of his activities after school hours.

Although he does not seem to study much, he manages to get by successfully and is an adept at using his wits. Because of his shrewdness we think that his intention of entering business is well founded.

FLORENCE E. PRICE

"Flo"

*Eyes of blue, hair of gold,
Lips that much of laughter hold.*

Flo is a wicked blonde and she knows how to strut her stuff. She started something new for baby day, when she came to school with the cutest pup imaginable. He barked and growled and could do all sorts of tricks. A pair of overalls completed her ensemble.

Flo has been with us for only one term but we all enjoy and appreciate her company. She lists her many friends among both boys and girls. She is one of our feminine class athletes, having played on the girls' baseball team and basketball team. Not only is she active in athletics, but she is a member of the Commercial Club, Spanish Club, and Girls' Glee Club.

Flo intends to enter Montclair Secretarial School after graduation. Her alma mater is well chosen since it is near home and also because she is good in commercial subjects.

We are sure that she will obtain a good position as someone's private secretary. The someone will be very fortunate, for it is now generally acknowledged that usefulness and beauty go hand in hand very well.

WILLIAM K. MILLER

"Pop"

*He knows his stuff in every sport;
Before the girls he likes to cavort.*

Behold Pop, our class athlete, and a mighty popular fellow besides. He was a member of the 1928 championship football team, held down first base on the baseball team, and played on the basketball team.

Bill also had an athletic part in the Senior play. As the mutinous, hairy pirate who attacked the captain, he created quite a sensation. Screams from the audience attested to the realism of his bloody death.

His readiness to make whoopee was made manifest in Washington, where he not only made plenty of noise himself, but incited the rest to do the same by his inspired cheerleading on the trolley car. Best results were obtained when he called for the famous 46-50.

Pop's good humor and cave man physique cause the girls to flock around him. The derby which he wears on special occasions adds the finishing touch to the sartorial adornment of his manly beauty.

Pop's right there when it comes to personality, and his initiative is shown by the job he holds down after school. We expect him to click with the business world as well as he does with all of us.

HELEN ROBERTS

"Helen"

*A determined crook with a taking way;
Pengard's wife in the Senior play.*

Helen is an aloof, attractive blonde who, although a statuesque beauty, is far from dumb.

In the senior play she was a hard, determined, yet not repulsive crook, in which capacity she pointed the pistol pointedly at the three opposing conspirators, and coolly remarked, speaking for herself and Jack Stansfield, "Any time there are thirty thousand pounds lying around loose, we're sure to be in it." Outside the senior play, her manners are much more gentle, and though her propensity for sarcasm and her tendency toward high-hattedness are not unnoticed, her abilities are equally recognized. Helen is the energetic president of the Sphinx Society, as well as a member of the English, Chemistry, Dramatic, Library, and Latin Clubs. In our junior year Helen was a helpful member of the Prom and Ring Committees, besides working on the dance committees all through school. In her studies, Helen maintains a high standard.

Until her senior year, she also went out for all girls' sports. Her particular interest in this line, however, is tennis, in which she plays a fast game. She is ranked among the first five best women players at the Bloomfield Tennis Club.

MORTON A. OLMAN

"Morty"

*Morty indeed is a very good sport;
He likes shows and girls and things of that sort.*

Morty is one of these fellows who have a great affinity for girls. Perhaps this is the reason he has such a liking for musical comedies, in fact, any show with girls in it. He has initiated most of the pretty girls in school into his "Diapa" Club. He approaches the girl in question, pins a brass safety pin on her and then extends to her congratulations.

Morty worked hard for the play. As our advertising manager, he saw to it that everyone in town knew of our play and its merit. Not content with this position alone, he took upon himself the duties of an usher and in the second act became a pirate.

The residents of Washington, including the manager of the Cairo Hotel, were frequently apprised of his presence by one of his famous yells. A hyena in the Washington Zoo turned green with envy upon hearing one of these screeches.

Morty is a member of the Chemistry Club. He gets quite a kick out of making the girls in lab period take a whiff of carbon disulphide. He also likes P. D., probably because he intends to be a lawyer. After graduation he intends to travel for a half year before attending college. The lucky university will be N. Y. U.

NETTIE RUBINSTEIN

"Ned"

*Just a joshing, genial, jovial lass,
Considered good fun by all the class.*

Introducing—

Nettie, the hungry three and half year student, who did not take her place among us until our senior A year. In that short time, however, she has won everybody's good will by her genial good nature and fills a special place of her own in our hearts. She can josh and be joshed with surprisingly good humor.

Besides her pleasantness Ned also has the powers of perserverance and effective speech. Her arguments with Pop Miller in P. D. will remain in our minds as classics.

During lunch periods Ned is always extremely amusing to her two inseparable companions, Josephine and Elsie, with her boop-boop-a-doop songs rendered in a plaintive way and her witty remarks.

She is an enthusiastic and active member of the German Club.

Ned is headed for Newark Normal. We hope you teach in Bloomfield, Ned!

ANDREW JAMES PETERS

"Choke"

*A cigar was the jinx for Choke in the play;
But Choke will learn to smoke someday.*

"I am from Camelford . . . ."

Do you recognize the above line? It's the first one Choke spoke in the senior play, as the "sleuth sub-luxe," and one which he usually repeats under any trying circumstances.

He was the life of several parties at Washington. One night he was peacefully reading a book in his room (the rest of the fellows were having a quiet game of bridge) when the hotel manager called up and told him to keep quiet. (It was about 12:30) Now this made Choke sore and he yelled into the phone, "Now we will make noise!" and he did.

He helped the property manager by carting heavy props to and from people's homes in his Ford truck.

One evening, during senior play rehearsal, Dix sent Choke up into the balcony with these words, "If you can't hear the actors, I want you to say only two words, 'Can't hear.' Understand?"

"O. K., Dix," replied Choke. The first thing he said when he got up there was, "Hey, Dix, they ain't speaking loud enough!"

Andrew expects to go to Montclair Teachers College in September. All the success in the world to you, Choke, but keep away from Washington.

EMMA LOUISE SHAUL

"Bunny"

*Poppy is quite a demure little miss;
Ask Lush if he will verify this.*

Bunny has certainly a large place in the affections of the class. She won the votes for the best personality, best looking, and best dressed, and tied for the position of class baby. What could be more eloquent than this—except possibly Jimmy's speech if he were to sum up his opinion of her?

Vivacity, pep, easy manners, and personality-plus are the secrets of her success.

In the senior play Bunny's part was the important one of Poppy Faire, Ambrose Applejohn's ward; critics unanimously agree that she portrayed the character to perfection.

Bunny has chosen from our own number a very handsome boy friend. Jimmy is one of the luckiest fellows in school.

Although Lush may verify the statement that Bunny is on the whole a demure little miss, in Washington she became one of those water-throwing termagants who caused so much discomfort to the other class baby, Charlie Hughes.

Bunny has always backed anything undertaken by the class, and furthermore, her friendly smile has caused many downhearted lads to abandon the idea of leaving school—especially Pemberton—wherein Bunny shows class spirit indeed. She is also interested in clubs, being secretary of the Girl Reserve, and a member of the English, Chemistry, and Home Economics Clubs.

Her application is in at N. J. C.

RAYMOND B. PRICE

"Ray—Peanuts"

*Though he may be short and small of size,
As a super villain he made hair rise.*

Peanuts, so called because of his size, the mascot of the "Four Horsemen" is by no means little in other ways. He is inclined to be quiet but that doesn't affect his getting into any and all mischief that he can lay hands on. He is very pleasing and always has something to say to everybody.

Peanuts always manages to get his lessons done despite the fact that he can never be observed staggering home under a load of books. Ray was in the senior play as one of the super villains and made a great little pirate.

Ray's plaintive little voice with its boop-boop-a-doop appeal can sometimes be heard chiming in with the Krenrich and Darling duets. Ray says that he likes to give those two a "break" once in a while.

Ray works in a grocery store after school. More power to your elbow, Ray. He belongs to the Spanish and Commercial Clubs.

If he displays the same diligence and faithfulness in performing tasks assigned to him in the business world as he did in completing duties given to him at school, he will make out well in whatever he goes in for.

HELEN STRINGER

"Susan"

*A smile for all, a welcome glad,
A jovial coaxing way she had.*

Is she a good sport? Ask the Four Horsemen. Is she smart? Ask Miss Seigle. We know, as everybody knows, that her answer will be "yes," which is our cue to join in the general chorus of praise by divulging the secret of the school bank's success. It's Helen Stringer, the Head Cashier, but perhaps this isn't such a secret after all. Anyway, if it's anything in the commercial line, Helen's right there. You should watch her type! The Student Prints and the Annual Board both avail themselves of her skill. As for clubs, Helen is president of the Commercial Club and vice-president of the Spanish Club.

During her lighter moments Helen has developed an unquestioned reputation for wit and good humor. In fact, the loss of her prize compact did not phase her a bit, and she would not dream of suspecting Joe Cantlie or Bill Krenrich, who are so suspiciously solicitous.

After summing up Helen's character everyone of us bets that the bank which is so fortunate as to secure her services as the president's private secretary, will find its stock soaring sky high.

JACOB SNYDER

"Jake"

*Upon my word it's Johnny Jason;
In search of news he'll soon be chasin'.*

"Johnny Jason! Why, upon my word it's Johnny Jason!" Yes, none other than Jake Snyder himself, alias Johnny Jason, the live wire real estate agent, or as Mr. Crosby said, "a coloratura basso in luxe." It was Johnny Jason who stirred up all the trouble in the senior play by using the secret panel and the pirate treasure as a sales inducement to the "disreputable old fence named Pengard."

Jake is another one of those fortunate beings with a very close friend. Jimmy and Jake make a nice blonde-brunette complement. Miss Smith does not consider their proximity in English class exactly conducive to good scholarship. Perhaps she is right, but it is much more convenient for conversation.

Jacob is going into training for journalism at Rutgers. Since it has often been remarked that he looks just like a real reporter, we confidently wish him success.

In writing up Jake, we must not forget to mention his definite taste in girls. He shows truly masculine decisiveness. We used to think that Jake didn't care for girls but in his senior year he has become quite a shiek and a dancer. Your mustache looked good in the play, why not wear one, Jake?

VERNA M. STRITTER

"Verna"

*Because of her he dreams in math;
All maiden's charms he thinks she hath.*

A romance, Verna, and we didn't know anything about it. But they will come! We suggest having your horoscope read. As somebody remarked, "She's a demure little thing, but....."

Verna is a real nice girl. Pleasant, bright, and attractive, she is held in high esteem by all of her class mates. Such qualities will be very useful in her chosen vocation, nursing. Nobody who knows her has any fear that she will ever mix cyanide with cough drops, for her accuracy, shown in both chem and math, is proverbial.

For the senior play, Verna was a very capable head usher. She is also a cracker-jack at selling tickets. No doubt this ability can be attributed to her neatness, that perfect haircomb, and a persuasive accommodating manner.

Wherever you see Verna you are sure, if you look hard enough, to discover her friend Ellen somewhere around. They are even going into training together at the Nurses' Training School of the Homeopathic Hospital in East Orange.

Verna belongs to the English and Chemistry Clubs.

BERNARD SPITZ

"Bennie"

*An artist in wind, is this Bennie Spitz;
In the senior play he was one of the bits.*

This artist in wind, none other than Bennie Spitz, was all the noise in the Senior play. Under his careful direction the wailing and whistling of the wind and the roar of the breakers were ably produced. To do that does take an artist, huh, Bennie? Bennie, if you could recognize him through his disguise, was also one of the blood-thirsty pirates in the mutiny scenes. Blast ye! He also helped the property man greatly by contributing some of the antique furniture, and, by the by, Ben certainly knows his upholstery.

Shush! Bennie also plays the violin. He fiddled for the Bloomfield High School Orchestra during his first three years of high school. We don't know whether this should have been divulged or not. Anyhow, Bennie doesn't have to buy a violin; he has his hair cut regularly!

During the changing of scenery in the play, he was the man at the ropes on the Romeo and Juliet balcony. Well, during the change one night, Freddie Dresch and Bennie were pulling on a particularly heavy piece of scenery. Freddie let go of the rope to yell at some one down below. Benny soared heavenward, as the heavy scenery descended. Well, we got Bennie down finally and he spent the rest of the night looking for Freddie.

MARGARET WEBBER

"Margie"

*Quiet is Margie, but quite true blue,
Always loyal, through and through.*

Margie has never been known to be mad or cross at any one. Unfortunately sick in the hospital those glorious three days the class spent in Washington, she missed a lot of fun, and we all missed her company.

It is in Scouting that Margie has had the best opportunity to show what she could do. Incidentally, her brother who graduated in June, also won high scout honors. It must be a family trait. She has worked diligently and hard, winning many honors and helping many of the girls.

Margie too went out for basketball and had a regular position on her class team until appendicitis prevented her from participating in it. She was also on the Girls' Gym Team, and the class baseball team, besides going out for hockey. She was a marvel at tossing baskets, and her team-mates all liked her for her sportsmanship and team spirit.

Margie took the commercial course, and we expect wonders from her in the business world. If steadiness, reliability, and genuine fine character count for anything, her success is assured.

Margie likes boys' schools too. Who was it she met at what military school?

JOHN B. STANSFIELD

"Jack"

*By the noise, we know when Jack's around,
Though to Jill 'tis nought but pleasant sound.*

Jack is one of the best-liked fellows in the class, despite his never-failing tendency to have a lot of fun. He was voted the senior with the best personality.

In the senior play Jack enacted the dual role of the crook, Horace Pengard, and the sallow-faced Chinese bosun. He was just fitted for the part and gave an extremely creditable portrayal of the two characters.

Jack has traveled more than anyone else in the class. By working his way, he has made trips to South America, Europe, Bahama Islands, and Havana.

In sports, he has taken part in baseball and basketball. Jack is another one of those known as a trig whiz. In his other subjects, he has made a meritable record.

He had the most fun of anyone in Washington. Ask Mr. Haupin. As for his entertaining ability, just give him a chance.

Jack is a faithful class worker. He sold the most theatre tickets, was among the three best sellers of senior play tickets and was on the Junior Prom committee. He is president of the Math Club and secretary-treasurer of the Chem Club. In addition, he is associated with the Hi-Y, Latin, French, and X Clubs. He was also the able business manager of "Senior Scenes."

He is planning to attend Dartmouth next fall with his friend Brice Banks, where he expects to take a two year pre-medical course.

VIRGINIA WILSON

"Jiggs"

*In sports, she is a shining star;
She tosses baskets from afar.*

Jiggs is another of our athletes. She had a prominent part in all of the girls' teams of the class: basketball, baseball and hockey, in addition to being a star of first magnitude in the Gym Team, and a leader in the gym exhibition. Besides being an athlete herself, Jiggs follows all the boys' games, particularly, shall we say, football. Those athletic men deserve encouragement, eh, what?

When Virginia went to West Point with the Commercial Club, she was lucky enough to get Cagle's autograph. She says that another of her boy friends is Stan Stankavish. She must have "it." Moreover, she is sometimes mentioned as one of the best dressed girls of the class.

She is popular among both the girls and the fellows. During 11A and 12B she was vice president of our class. She is a member of the English Club and is secretary-treasurer of the Sphinx Society.

Dancing is Jiggs' particular accomplishment, and no wonder. She has been for years a pupil of Miss Russell, and a star pupil too.

At the Katharine Gibbs Secretarial School, she hopes to be taught the technique of being some one's private secretary. Lucky some one! No doubt, with the aid of her charm and personality, she will secure a position coveted by other girls.

RAYMOND WILLIAMS

"Ray"

*None we know who is more han'some;
For his looks we'd give a king's ransom.*

Handsome—and modest! What a combination! Ray was voted the best looking boy in the class, but still he demurred at having his picture taken for the annual. We asked him why, and he replied that he didn't want to spoil it. That, girls, is modesty for you!

No one knows very much about Ray, probably because he's not in the habit of talking about himself and because he is a quiet chap—but not if you know him well. We have heard a few favorable things about him that have raised him above the sphere of the commonplace. He is regarded as a peach of a chap by those who know him intimately.

We can't remember where, but it seems that we have seen him in a basketball suit. Yes, now we're positive.

Ray went down to see "Dracula" with some of us and with Pemberton he slept during parts of the play. As a matter of fact Ray does quite a little sleeping in English class, too, but this is confidential.

Ray expects to enter the University of Alabama when he graduates. There must be more than one reason for going to Alabama to college! The class unites to wish you the best of luck, but don't forget, "Take it easy down in Alabama!"

DOROTHY WOODWARD

"Dot"

*A jolly lass from Cedar Grove,
In search of learning she doth rove.*

Dot is our farmerette, for she comes from Cedar Grove. She has an inexhaustible supply of humor, which she distributes generously wherever she goes. Wisecracking is Dot's best line. She is always poking fun at some one in a seemingly serious manner while the twinkle in her eye betrays her every time. With this faculty for giving a quick answer to any question asked her, she often shines in English class where her replies meet with great appreciation.

Dame Rumor has it that Dot conceals a romance beneath her usually smiling exterior. Well, Dot, 'fess up—tell us who he is. No doubt your freshman brother could be induced to divulge all, but we won't stoop to bribery.

With her sunny smile and cheery way we are sure that Dot will make friends with all with whom she comes in contact. Her personality, comeliness, and power to think quickly in emergencies ought to win for her a happy home or a high position in politics. We advise Dot to go to a co-educational college, where her brilliant repartee will stand her in good stead. And the numberless good looking single men at college, Dot! How about that?

CLASS PROPHECY

Time..... 1943

Setting..... S. S. Van Dine, bound for France

Scene..... Smoking room, about 11:00 P. M.

Characters

Jack Stansfield..... A tired Business man
Brice Banks..... Author of recent Book of the Month, "What Have You?"
Jack Hague..... Seeking a rest after four years of strenuous labor spent in replacing stop street signs in Bloomfield, U. S. A.
Edward Bristol..... A disillusioned young doctor who is touring Europe in the hope of finding another body to mutilate.
Pemberton..... Vagabond Lover

(Draped over the bar are Bristol and Hague.)

Enter Banks and Stansfield.

Banks—Well, well, how's your mother? (All exchange greetings, clinking of glasses is heard.)

Note: 12 mile limit is passed.)

(They go out on deck.)

Stansfield—(Goes to rail).

Bristol—Why bring that up?

Stansfield—Wha-What's that rowboat doing tied on there? Let's pull it in.

(They pull on rope.)

Voice below, cursing—Meadows! My Murads! Someone is pulling us in.

(Meadows climbs over rail.)

Meadows—Announcing Pemberton!

(Pemberton appears.)

Chorus—'Pon my word, it's Charlie Grant.

Pemberton—What's the idea of pullin' in that rope? I'll break your arm.

Banks—Oh! Pardon me for living.

Pem.—Oh, my goodness gracious! It's Brice Banks. And here's Eddie Bristol, Jack Hague, and Jack Stansfield. Sakes alive, who'd a thunk it. Regular reunion. (Handshakes.)

Hague—Wha-What are youse doon out in that boat? Huh-huh? (hic).

Pem.—Oh, getting local color for a shipwreck scene in my new book, "Tales of a Vagabond Lover." By the way, who do you think I saw before leaving N. Y.?

Stansfield—Who?

Pem.—Eddie Darling, cabaret dancing with Virginia Wilson in Morty Olman's Jollity Nite Club. But, say, what's happened to Bill Pierson? Any you fellows know?

Stansfield—Oh, Bill! Why, he's painting in Paris.

Eddie Bristol—Speaking of our old classmates, do you know what Bill Miller is doing now?

Banks—Last I heard, he was joining the marines. He was sick of the world.

Hague—Betcha can't guess who I saw.

Chorus—(Excitedly) Who?

Hague—Nettie Rubinstein. She was just getting her third divorce—from Bob Andrus. You remember that high school romance?

Stansfield—(Indifferently) You remember Helen Roberts, the senior play crook? Well, she got pinched recently for disobeying the blue laws.

Banks—I was told that Freddie Dresch caught a mountain lion in the wilds of Cedar Grove.

Pem.—I just heard that Charlie Lender broke the bank at Monte Carlo.

Hague—You don't say? Betcha can't beat this. Verna Stritter and Ellen Haines have just signed a contract for a long run on Broadway with Ziegfield, all nursing aside.

Eddie Bristol—Aw, that's nothing. Johnny Daniel wrote the musical comedy that's starring Helen Stringer.

Stansfield—That's funny. Ray Hyde and Jake Snyder are tossing the landscapes about, backstage, in that very play and Mary Casale is engaged to Harold Mendles, the hero.

Banks—I met Charlie Hughes in Bamberger's last Christmas. He was one of those Santa Clauses with a deep bass laugh, heh, heh.

Pemmy—Do you remember Joe Cantlie? Well, he finally went to college.

Chorus—What did he take up?

Pemmy—Evolution.

Stansfield—Elsie Friedhof, Catherine Mulvey, and Lena Mustachio, are running a French restaurant in Russia.

Hague—I heard that Lydia Newman married Ray Price and opened up a fish market in Harlem.

Banks—Bennie Spitz and Choke Peters are inventors. Bennie's working on a new type wind machine and Choke is trying to discover a cheap anti-freeze.

Bristol—'Member Jimmy Forrest? He is running a lunch wagon in Hoboken. Mrs. Forrest, Bunny, of course, keeps the floor very clean.

Stansfield—Dot Woodward and Florence Daly are spies for the German Government, heh, heh.

Hague—Marjorie Dickson is running a dog kennel out in Hackensack.

Pem.—I hear Laura Fenstermacher tried to swim the English channel, but (Frank wasn't there) she had to swim back.

Hague—Nancy Hart, the human fly, has a good job painting church spires down in Texas. And by the way, Ray Williams is cow punching in the same place.

Eddie Bristol—Bill Krenrich is a forest ranger in Canada.

Stansfield—Josephine Jaeger and Florence Price are trolley car conductors in Minne-ha-ha.

Pem.—Well, I'm going back in my boat to get more local color. My public is calling. See ya some time again, I'm afraid.

Chorus—Where will we all be a hundred years from now?

(Curtain—Applause)

CAPTAIN APPLEJACK

The night was cold, snowy. The wind howled about the eaves. Below, the sea crashed and roared fiercely on the cliffs. It was a night when almost anything might happen.

They stood together in a dimly lit room of the big old house. In broken English she besought him to save her; to protect her from the sinister spy that pursued her. He assented. Hurriedly he hustled her into a hiding place and gulped a drink nervously. Then across to the table where his pistol lay. He was prepared. Let come who may. Tensely he waited. Then came a startling knock! Then a step, and in stalked—Charlie Lender, alias Ivan Borolsky.

That was one of the moments of high interest in Captain Applejack, presented by the Senior A Class in the new auditorium last Friday and Saturday evenings.

The scene was laid in the ancient ancestral home of Ambrose Applejohn. Ambrose, played most excellently by Bill Pierson, bored to death by the monotony of his sheltered country life, wished for romance and adventure. The rest of the family consisted of demure little Poppy Faire, otherwise Louise Shaul, ward of Ambrose, and prim Miss Agatha Whatcombe, her aunt. James Forrest acted as Lush, the convenient and stately butler.

Ambrose's wishes really do come true when a dark-haired, exotic young woman, who claims to be Anna Valeska the Russian dancer, rushes in begging to be saved from a foul villain who pursues her. This part was taken by Laura Fenstermacher. More excitement prevailed when Mr. and Mrs. Pengard, portrayed by Helen Roberts and Jack Stansfield, interrupted the dancer's story saying that they had had a motor accident. However, the audience realized that they were up to no good, for when Ambrose left the room for a moment they acted most suspiciously. As though that were not enough, after the Pengards have left, Ivan Borolsky, the spy, played by Charles Lender, made his dramatic entrance demanding the Russian dancer. He leaves only at the point of a pistol.

When Ambrose and Poppy Faire, stumbling on a secret panel, find a document supposedly written by Captain Applejack, a pirate and founder of the family, and when he falls asleep while reading it, his dream forms the basis of the second act. It was on a pirate vessel where Ambrose, as Captain Applejack, had his fill of adventure. This was the most picturesque and the best-liked part of the play.

The third act, back in the Ambrose home, introduces two new characters: Andrew Peters as Dennet, the pseudo-sleuth, and Jacob Snyder as Johnny Jason, the live wire real estate agent, who had introduced the secret panel and manuscript as a sales idea. However, a real honest-to-goodness parchment was found which gave directions to the great treasure. Then the thrilling romance was found by Ambrose to be only an illusion, for he discovered that the visitors were merely thieves intent on the treasure. But young Applejohn foils the ruffians and discovers that he loves the one who stood by him through thick and thin—Poppy Faire.

CLASS HISTORY

SENIOR A

After four very successful years forty-three seniors out of a class originally numbering one hundred and eight are about to enter upon the different vocations of life. The class was most fortunate in having as adviser from the beginning Mr. James P. Haupin, celebrated math teacher.

In our freshman year we held the best dance ever given in B. H. S. up to that time. Through the ingenuity of several members of the class we advertised the event by a minstrel. Without doubt it was because of this that the dance was attended by a record number of students. During the second year the membership of the class rapidly dwindled, but nevertheless we were financially successful in both candy sale and dance. At the latter, one of the school humorists, Harry Watkins, gave several specialties.

The third and fourth years are the busiest and hardest years of all. The major events of these years will remain for a long time in the minds of participants. The prom was a very gala affair, attended by many. Professional decorators by the use of cheap bunting transformed the gym into a cabaret with cozy nooks and corners. The most joyful occasions of the last year were the outings that we made to Mr. Haupin's farm at Pottersville, N. J. The first was a hot dog roast, but the second was a Hallowe'en party attended by many members of the class, several parents, Mr. Poole and his family, and Miss Smith, our home room teacher. The evening was spent in games, dancing, eating, and other forms of amusement, including for two or three of the braver ones a "cool" swim in the Black River.

In the last semester the class enjoyed a three-day stay in Washington. We were received by Mrs. Hoover in the White House. Immediately upon returning, we selected a play committee and began work which culminated in the production of the play, "Captain Applejack," a successful venture.

THE WASHINGTON TRIP

The Washington trip—history now, but what a grand event it was. It is impossible even to try to relate all the amusing anecdotes of the trip. In fact, an attempt of this nature leads one to sympathize with the historians. But a start must be made somewhere.

On the train ride going down to the nation's capital, everybody was too excited to do much except speculate. Of course, we'll probably never forget Bill Krenrich and Choke Peters. For some strange reason they became oddly pale and much in need of copious fresh air. And then there were those two big, bold men, Bill Pierson and Eddie Bristol each sitting in the same seat with two girls. Oh yes, we mustn't forget the class sheik, Eddie Darling, dressed fit to kill with his derby, cane, spats, and gloves.

The de luxe buses that carried us on all our sight-seeing tours in Washington were a treat in themselves. Of course, the meals occupied an extremely important place in all minds, but we should pass over such material things in an epic of this sort. A goodly portion of the travelers can highly recommend the theatres that may be found in Washington.

The first night, we were very tired and went to bed immediately upon reaching our rooms. Or did we? At any rate the hotel manager was puzzled over the many queer noises that issued from rooms filled with such tired students.

Next morning, we were carried in great excitement to the White House where we waited in awed suspense in the ante room until Mrs. Hoover entered. President Bill, apparently distressed by the prominence of his hands and feet, gracefully presented the First Lady of the land with a large bouquet. Then we formed in line and actually shook hands with the great lady.

That afternoon, the trolley ride to Mt. Vernon, and the memorable boat ride home. There were several features about the boat ride. Who can forget the syncopated piano that played fourteen pieces for a solitary nickel? Those on the upper deck were highly amused by the antics of the class clowns, Jack Stansfield and Charlie Grant. To climax the pleasures of a well-spent Friday, the class went to the theatre in the evening, and enjoyed a dance back in the Hotel Cairo after the show.

Saturday morning was spent in divers ways. Part of the class went up in airplanes, another group went by bus to Annapolis while the remainder of the class spent the morning shopping.

Many thanks are due Mr. Haupin and the tour director, Mr. Mann, for arranging all details and seeing to it that everything went over without a hitch.

FAMOUS SAYINGS

How's your mother?

How about that?

Whad da say, babe?

Pardon me for living.

Tish, tish.

Put the spot light on Grant.

Hurrah, hurrah, my father's gonna be hung.

One of our four and a half year students.

I get the blues when it rains.

I'm a womanless man.

Boop-boop-a-doop.

Hello, Joe Fruit.

Sorry fellows, I've only got a pint of gas.

Do your Trig?

Let's cut gym.

Let's go shoot Poole down in the Grill room.

Am I right or am I right?

Don't bother me—I'm training for tomorrow's sleep.

Let's go galloping.

I'll break your arm.

Tell all your friends you met me.

I'm afraid I'll be seeing you.

XI A . . . . .	MILDRED HARRINGTON, DAVID HILL
XI B . . . . .	ELSIE CARLSON, RUSSELL FORREST
X A . . . . .	MAY PIERSON, DAVID HART
X B . . . . .	ADA DANIEL, JOSEPH MOORE
IX A . . . . .	KATHLEEN MORRIS, NEWELL RAND
IX B . . . . .	HELEN DARROW, DOYLE GARLAND

On Wednesday, October 16, 1929, during the Assembly Period, the above members of the first Student Council of Bloomfield High School were elected by the student body.

The members have been hard at work since the first meeting and through their efforts, the conditions in the cafeteria have greatly improved.

The Student Council is now at work on the projects of a School Seal, a School Calendar and a School Handbook.

They are also working on a constitution which will be submitted to the student body for approval before it is adopted by the Council. This constitution will give the student body the correct reasons for the organizing of the Student Council.

No doubt it will take a great deal of time and effort on the part of the Student Council to take hold of things, but it is hoped that in the near future they will be able to handle all important matters in the school-life of B. H. S.

SENIOR B

President .....	ROBERT MILLER
Vice President .....	JOSEPH BRINK
Secretary .....	MARION SMITH
Treasurer .....	ROBERT CUNLIFFE

Not much has been heard from us as yet this year because we have given way to the present senior class. However, just wait until next June and you will see plenty in the next annual.

Since we have decided to make a trip to Washington, the class undertook a theatre party this term to increase its funds. It takes considerable money to make such a trip possible for a class of over one hundred-twenty members.

MARION SMITH, Secretary.

JUNIOR A

President .....	JACK DAVIS
Vice President .....	CAROL ALLING
Secretary .....	DORIS RAISBECK
Treasurer .....	THOMAS POOLEY
Class Adviser .....	MR. MICHAEL FRATE

This year has been a most important one for the class. Early in December we chose our class rings. During the rest of December we were busy with the Junior Prom, which we gave jointly with the Junior B class. Both classes worked hard on this, and we felt it was a great success.

Although our class is small, it is well represented in all school activities. Jack Davis, our president, and Dick Fornoff played on the football team this fall and it is to them that we owe much of the success attained in that direction. Jack is also an active candidate for basketball.

We elected Mildred Harrington and David Hill to represent us on the Student Council. They have performed their duties well and faithfully.

Our participation in scholastic matters ought not to be neglected. Two of our members, Carol Alling and Grace Johnson, are members of the staff of The Student Prints. From Carol's pen come many of the snappy articles of that publication. Grace's posters are always persuasive.

Just because our class is small, all of its members have taken great interest in its well being. This interest does more than numbers to make a class successful. We hope to make our last year even more successful than the preceding ones, and to come through as a credit to B. H. S.

Doris Raisbeck, Secretary.

JUNIOR B

President .....	ERNEST DAVIDSON
Vice President .....	LEON DOBROWOLSKI
Secretary .....	JAMES BRIDGE
Treasurer .....	JOHN LEISS
Class Adviser .....	MISS MABEL JENKINS

We are represented on the Student Council by Russ Forrest, the snappy cheer-leader, and by good-natured Elsie Carlson, who supports the weaker side of the class.

In the athletic Hall of Fame we have Ernie Davidson, our president, who struts his stuff on the gridiron as half-back. He also runs the 100 yds., and the way he does it would make Nurmi himself sit up and take notice. Jerry Clericuzio, Don Pollitt and William Penn also did their part on the football field. On the diamond we have Harold Miano who would make Wes Kingdon look sick.

The biggest social event in the Junior B class was the Junior Prom which went over with a bang because of the earnest efforts of Joe Schieferly and his fellow-workers. As a running mate to the Junior Prom was the class dance which was also a howling success.

Some of the big shots in the class are Ernie Davidson, the football man; John Leiss, the woman-hater; Leon Dobrowolski, the jazz king; Russ Forrest, cheer leader; Joe Schieferly, man about town; and Tom Maxfield, the soldier boy. Among the girls we have Elsie Carlson, Constance Stone, Adelaide Stamy, Florence Schilling and Louise Fulton.

James Bridge, Secretary.

SOPHOMORE B

OFFICERS

President .....	ADA DANIEL
Vice President .....	NAOMI DALZELL
Secretary .....	JOSEPH MOORE
Treasurer .....	ALBERT MARSH

Although only a year old, the class of '32 has shown real school spirit in athletic and social activities.

At the beginning of the term we elected new officers. Ada Daniel, our president, has already shown herself a capable leader.

We are making plans for a class dance which will take place in February. We feel sure that it will be even a bigger success than our freshman dance, which was one of the best class dances held last year. Our candy sale will be in May.

Our members are active in four fields of sport: football, baseball, basketball, and track. The following students are active in athletics: Frank Schumell, John Reid, Christy Pentecoste, Robert Pieper, Thomas Adams, Joseph Moore, Joseph Carson, Gilray Anderson, Austin Murphy, and Joseph Oros.

We are represented in the Student Council by Ada Daniel and Joseph Moore.

No account of the work of the class of "'32" can be complete with acknowledging our debt of gratitude to Miss Terry, our class adviser, for her part in planning our year's work and helping to make it a success.

JOSEPH MOORE, Secretary.

FRESHMAN A

President .....	NEWELL RAND
Vice President .....	EDWARD KREBS
Secretary .....	EDYTHE KOLTER
Treasurer .....	JOSEPH STIVALE

Although we are sorry that because of other work, Mr. Kunkle could not continue as our class adviser, we are fortunate in having Mr. Klein to take his place. With him as adviser the class is sure to prosper. The class will give him its heartiest co-operation.

Our dance in October was very successful. We hope that our candy sale will be as satisfactory.

Kathleen Morris and Newell Rand are on the Student Council. We have representatives on football, basketball and track teams. The girls have a basketball team that has won one game.

Rooms 316 and 317, both filled with freshmen, won the attendance banner for October. Mr. Boomer, suspected at first of not liking his class, has changed his mind about us.

EDYTHE KOLTER, Secretary.

FRESHMAN B

President .....	WALLACE McNEARY
Vice President .....	WILLIAM BERGER
Secretary .....	HELEN AMERMAN
Treasurer .....	WILLIAM POTTS

The Freshman B class has started out very successfully with Mr. Mason as class adviser. Its first meeting was held October 7, 1929. As soon as the class was organized, it was called upon to select representatives for the Student Council, a committee for the November candy sale, and one to make plans for an entertainment to be given for the parents in November. Helen Darrow and Doyle Garland were chosen as Student Council members and are filling their places well.

November came, and with it the freshman entertainment, the first of its kind to be given in B. H. S., with about sixty-five parents in attendance. The feature of the program was a reminiscent sketch led by Margaret Lux and Richard Place. It presented the talent of the class in lines of music, dancing, and recitation. The following took part: Virginia Swenson, classical dancing; Adele Walker, tap dancing; Bertha Kominiski and William Findley, soprano solos; William Woodward, recitation.

Many of the freshmen have gone out for athletics; they surely should be fit after climbing to the fourth floor each morning. Although only a few girls have gone out for basketball, it is an honor to have so good a representation on the Junior Gym Team.

The class is quite musical, having many members in orchestra, band, and glee clubs.

The class approaches the end of a very eventful term with about thirty-five dollars cleared from the candy sale, a good representation in many activities, and a successful entertainment to its credit. The members are anticipating their dance, scheduled for March.

HELEN AMERMAN, Secretary.

The high school bank is a part of the Bloomfield Savings Institution.

Banking day is Wednesday, and the smallest amount accepted is twenty-five cents. On Friday pupils may withdraw their money.

A large percentage of the school deposits and the average money taken in each month ranges from eight to nine hundred dollars. A banner is awarded each month to the home room with the highest percentage of depositors. Competition for it is very keen.

The Bloomfield High School Savings Bank is known in the State of New Jersey for its high percentage of depositors.

HI-Y

President .....	ROBERT CUNLIFFE
Vice President .....	HAROLD PIERSON
Secretary .....	ERNEST DAVIDSON
Treasurer .....	ROBERT MILLER
Advisers .....	{ A. K. FRANKLIN, Montclair Y. M. C. A. JEROME C. SALSURY, Faculty

This organization is made up of the older high school boys who are banded together with this purpose: "To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character."

Many of the members are seniors who are playing a prominent part in several school activities. Four are class presidents, and the present treasurer is this year's captain of the basketball and baseball teams, as well as a member of the football team. Our president is the basketball manager.

Several meetings this fall have been given to such outside speakers as Dr. Sinclair and Dr. Poling of Bloomfield; and Dr. Travis of Upper Montclair; and Mr. Scott, chairman of the state Y. M. C. A. boys' work.

This club was represented by five members at the State Older Boys' Conference held at Ridgewood, December 6, 7, and 8.

We wish here to express our hearty thanks to our advisers, to the Y. M. C. A., to the office, to Miss Sayles and her helpers, to the school authorities, and to any others who have helped us in our work.

ERNEST DAVIDSON, Secretary.

GIRL RESERVES

President .....	MARJORIE DICKSON
Vice President .....	MURIEL ACKERMAN
Secretary .....	LOUISE SHAUL
Treasurer .....	MARGARET PHILLIPS
Adviser .....	MISS MARJORIE S. WATTS

The Bloomfield High School Girl Reserves were organized in September, 1928. This year meetings have been held with programs including both social affairs and outside speakers. A semi-annual affair is the combined initiation-supper meeting which has been held at the Lucky "7" Tavern. These meetings were well attended and afforded a great deal of amusement.

Many of the girls were able to attend conferences and joint meetings of the Girl Reserve clubs at the Y. W. C. A. in Newark. A council is held quite often which the officers from clubs in the district attend. They discuss various topics of interest and try to formulate new activities for the members to enjoy. Generally, suppers are held in the Y. W. C. A. cafeteria, at which everyone is at ease and meets new girls. These conferences and meetings are enjoyable as well as beneficial.

The various clubs were asked to pledge a sum voted by each individual club to help support Y. W. C. A. developments abroad. The Bloomfield Girl Reserves "bought" Tokio.

LOUISE SHAUL, Secretary.

BOYS' GLEE CLUB

President ..... WILLIAM PIERSON
Secretary-Treasurer ..... RAYMOND WARD
Librarian ..... LAVERNE WALKER

The fall season of 1929 was one of the most successful that the club has ever seen since the days of Mac Young. At the first try-outs over seventy boys responded. Consequently a club of fifty with a waiting list of twenty-five was formed.

Weekly rehearsals became very strenuous meetings but the results were pleasing, for the enthusiastic group was inspired by its beautiful surroundings in the new auditorium. Mr. Crosby worked up several selections which were offered at the public appearance of the club for this year when the new building was formally opened. At the College Benefit Fund movies the club sang "The Tinker's Song" from the opera "Robin Hood."

Miss Albinson and Mr. Crosby are planning for a joint recital of the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs. A concert of this sort will do much to establish the glee clubs in the school.

RAYMOND WARD, Secretary.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

LOIS FORNOFF.....	President
LOUISE KIERNAN.....	Librarian
GERTRUDE CARR.....	Treasurer
MURIEL ACKERMAN.....	Secretary
MISS EDITH M. ALBINSON.....	Director

With the opening of our beautiful new building, the Girls' Glee Club entered upon its season with high hopes and aspirations for a successful and essentially musical program for the year. If we have not fulfilled our expectations at the close of the season, it will not be because of a lack of co-operation and splendid endeavor on the part of the members and director.

Our first public appearance was at the opening of the High School, November 7th. From then on we worked on a program which included carol singing at the Christmas assembly, and songs in lighter vein for graduation. Plans are being made for a concert and operetta to be given in the spring.

Our social activities have not been neglected. Rollicking fun and merriment held sway at the Christmas party where novel musical games and songs were entered into with much zest.

LATIN CLUB

Honorary President .....	MISS MAUDE C. GAY
President .....	N. BRICE BANKS
Vice President .....	DOROTHY BUNTING
Secretary .....	WILLARD HECKEL
Treasurer .....	MARGARET DUNN

The Latin Club combines social activity and education. Our September meeting consisted of a trip to the Reid Ice Cream Plant. The Reid people donated generous samples and conducted us through the plant.

The feature of the next meeting was a treasure hunt. The clues were written in Latin and the two teams had a close race.

At the November meeting we experienced the thrill of playing Roman games.

The annual Saturnalia proved a success. After a business meeting, gifts and refreshments were distributed and Latin carols were sung.

The museum started by the club is rapidly increasing in size and value. In a January assembly, the club plans to commemorate the two thousandth anniversary of the birth of Virgil.

WILLARD HECKEL, Secretary.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

Honorary President ..... O. J. WALRATH

President ..... CHARLES P. GRANT

Vice President ..... JOHN M. HAGUE

Secretary-Treasurer ..... JOHN B. STANSFIELD

The Chemistry Club has been as active as usual this year. The first meeting was devoted to the election of officers. Plans were discussed for demonstrations, trips and speakers.

Through good fortune we had Mr. Garwood A. Ottinger from the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company give a lecture on television and telephotography. This lecture was of unusual interest to every member.

In November the club journeyed to Kopper's Seaboard Coke Plant, at Kearney. The members were shown, in groups, through the numerous departments of the plant. The most interesting part of the trip, however, proved to be the inspection of the plant's laboratory, which was made more interesting because we had the chief chemist as our guide.

In December, Mr. Lamb of Kopper's gave a lecture accompanied by slides. He explained the processes used in making coke.

Two of the members, Charles Grant and John Hague, have been engaged in the construction of a model Sulphuric acid plant, which will be completed soon.

JOHN B. STANSFIELD, Secretary.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

President .....	MARJORIE DICKSON
Vice-President .....	MARION SMITH
Secretary .....	DORIS RAISBECK
Treasurer .....	ELSIE CARLSON
Ch. Refreshment Comm. .....	ELEANOR LAWLESS
Ch. Program Comm. .....	MARGARET DUNN
Ch. Ways and Means Comm. .....	MILDRED BOPP

The meetings of the French Club occur the fourth Monday of every month. This term, the meetings were enjoyed in the new building which afforded more convenient rooms for the various activities of the club. The annual Christmas Party took place on January 5, 1930. Miss Hartz very kindly offered her home to entertain the club at this affair. All those who attended thoroughly enjoyed the fun.

The club has been enjoyable to every member and the term ends by leaving behind a successful year.

DORIS RAISBECK, Secretary

DRAMATIC CLUB

President .....	THOMAS MAXFIELD
Vice President .....	WILLIAM PIERSON
Secretary .....	GERTRUDE B. CARR
Treasurer .....	CHARLES O'CONNOR
Librarian .....	ARTHUR ERIKSEN
Historian .....	ISABEL BIRNIE

The old Dramatic Club of Bloomfield High School has been revived this year. On October 18, 1929, elections took place for the semester.

At each bi-weekly meeting, a one act play is given. The plays presented up to date are: "The Diabolical Circle," "Sham," and "Great Moments."

The qualifications for membership are faithful attendance and conscientious effort to co-operate with the club activities.

Mr. Crosby, able director of these famous senior plays, is at the helm of the Dramatic Club. He thinks the club is good training for future senior productions.

GERTRUDE B. CARR, Secretary.

MATH CLUB

MR. HAUPIN ..... Honorary President
 JACK STANSFIELD ..... President
 ARTHUR ERIKSEN ..... Vice President
 STANLEY HORROCKS ..... Secretary and Treasurer

If you are interested in Mathematics or in solving difficult problems, join the Math Club. Anyone who has taken two and one-half years of mathematics is eligible. This year there are twenty-one active members.

A meeting of this club is held on the third Tuesday of every month. At these meetings the members of the club solve many difficult problems. Often at the meetings they are shown short, easy methods of solving such problems.

Once a year, in the Spring, the club is invited to Mr. Haupin's home in the country. There, everyone has a fine time. All the members go swimming in the river before they return to enjoy the refreshments.

This club is supported by many members of the faculty. Mr. Haupin, Mr. Koehler, Miss Terhune, and Miss Decker are active supporters of the club.

Come and join the Math Club.

STANLEY HORROCKS.

SPHINX SOCIETY

HELEN ROBERTS.....	President
LOIS FORNOFF.....	Vice President
WALTER WHITEMAN.....	Secretary
ALBERT NAGY.....	Treasurer
MR. ROSS.....	Faculty Adviser

The Sphinx Society held its first meeting of this term on October 7, 1929. Plans were made for the assembly program to be given by the club on the Wednesday preceding Armistice Day. Rev. Mr. Wiers, of the Montclair Unity Church, was decided on as the speaker.

At the November meeting a new initiation ceremony was introduced, and more new members were told the mysteries of the Sphinx. A ruling was also adopted by which the ten persons having the highest marks in 9B Ancient History will be invited to join the club. Prior to this only those who had one year of history and had signified their intention of continuing the subject could join the club.

The Sphinx society offers, every year, a Sphinx research medal, to be awarded to the member writing the best essay on some historical subject during the year. It also presents a five dollar gold piece to the person who has received the highest average grade for the three years of history; Ancient, Modern and American. The award is presented at the end of each term at the graduation exercises.

WALTER WHITEMAN, Secretary.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

President .....	RUTH OHLSON
Vice President .....	MADELINE EMMONS
Secretary .....	ALMA BERON
Treasurer .....	JANET HILOWITZ

The Home Economics Club has been one of the active clubs of the school this term. It was the first to contribute to the Organ Fund, for the organ which we hope will some day be in the auditorium. The club did a great deal in choosing the furniture, dishes, and linens for the apartment connected with domestic science work.

A picnic at Cherry Lane in September, with guests, Mr. J. E. Poole and Mr. Haupin, was a great success. A trip through Bamberger's kitchens to see how the food is prepared for their cafeteria, and trips to the same store to see fashion shows and hear talks on fashions were also enjoyed by the members.

On December third the club presented the assembly program. Miss Schaufler, the club adviser, read the Thanksgiving Proclamation by President Hoover, and a humorous play, "The King's Breakfast," was presented by members of the club. On December 6th the club held its annual Christmas Party. Bridge, dancing, and good eats were certainly enjoyed by all.

ALMA BERON, Secretary.

THE ENGLISH CLUB

President .....	MARY LENZ
Vice President .....	ELLIOTT SIMMS
Secretary-Treasurer .....	S. DAVID HART
Adviser .....	MISS ANNE M. SMITH

The English Club was founded in May, 1928. All those who were interested in good literature and in starting a school paper were asked to join.

Constitution and Paper Committees were appointed. The former presented a constitution which was accepted without change. The latter, although they had a very difficult task to accomplish, did their work admirably well. "The Student Prints" is the result.

At the November meeting, Miss Helene Scherff of the Public Library spoke on her extensive travels in Europe, speaking unusually, interestingly, and very vividly. Her talk was enjoyed very much.

In December Eunice and Hervey Vassar presented their puppet show, "Hansel and Gretel," at the Masonic Temple. Between the acts music from the opera played on the victrola gave it an added finish. The performance was very clever and much enjoyed.

The club meets on the second Thursday of each month.

S. DAVID HART, Secretary.

EL CIRCULO ESPANOL

Honorary President .....	MISS VERA SAFFORD
President .....	MARY CASALE
Vice President .....	HELEN STRINGER
Treasurer .....	ANTOINETTE CASALE
Secretary .....	WALLACE SOMERS

The Spanish Club is one of the outstanding clubs of the school. It always has an interesting program throughout the year. In the fall there is the usual hike to Brookdale with a camp supper. The annual Thanksgiving party in November is held at the Community House. This is invariably an enjoyable occasion. In February there is the trip to New York. This is always a tremendous success. The usual program is a visit to the Spanish Museum in the Spanish Cathedral, then to the model Spanish home in Wanamaker's store, a Spanish dinner at the Double R Coffee House, a show on Broadway, and another bite to eat before coming home.

COMMERCIAL CLUB

President .....	HELEN STRINGER
Vice President .....	MARY CASALE
Secretary .....	ETHEL SKINNER
Treasurer .....	DOROTHY CORCORAN

As usual the Commercial Club has had a very active year. The outstanding speaker was Mr. Carstens of New York, who spoke of insurance.

The most important trip was that to West Point in October. After seeing the Cadets in full dress parade and visiting the gymnasium and mess hall, we witnessed the Army-South Dakota football game.

Our annual Christmas Party was held at the school instead of the Community House. Dancing in the teachers' dining room was followed by a luncheon served in the main cafeteria. Among our guests were Mr. Stover, Mr. Poole, Mr. Hochstuhl, Miss Miller, and Miss Roszel.

GERMAN CLUB

Honorary President .....	MISS ZINN
President .....	JOANNA MILLER
Vice President .....	VINCENT ZERGIEBEL
Secretary-Treasurer .....	ELSIE FRIEDHOF

The German Club of Bloomfield High School was organized in May, 1929. Its chief purpose is to maintain and increase the interest in the study of German. The club, though somewhat small, is select, since its membership is restricted to pupils having one term of German and an average of 85% in their previous term. The club has been quite a successful one thus far, for its members have been enthusiastic and interested.

At the November meeting, pins were selected and purchased by nearly all the members. The pin has on it the colors of the German flag with "B. H. S." written across the top and "Deutscher Kreis" across the bottom.

The Christmas party at the Community House was a decided success, and everyone present had a good time. A trip to New York is anticipated in the near future.

FOOTBALL

Coach .....	WILLIAM L. FOLEY
Assistant Coach .....	CHARLES VENNER
Captain .....	FRANK SCHUMELL
Manager .....	RICHARD BOND

Facing one of the toughest schedules in the state, the 1929 Bloomfield High School football team came through the season with four victories, five defeats and one tie.

After vanquishing Evander Childs of New York and Belleville High School by 6-0 scores, the Bloomfield Bulldogs lost to South Side of Newark 19-18 in a game that will long be remembered by Bloomfield fans as a thriller. No less than three touchdowns were made in the last five minutes. Asbury Park downed the Red and Gray in the next game 26-0 and Dickinson High School defeated Bloomfield the following week 14-0. But Coach Foley's recruits snapped out of their game-losing streak to take over East Side on Election Day, and Irvington on Armistice Day by 13-0 victories. The following Saturday saw a fighting Bloomfield team take the short end of a 14-0 decision against Nutley, co-holders with Asbury Park of the 1929 Class A title. Paterson Central surprised the Bulldogs in the succeeding game by holding Bloomfield to a 6-6 tie. The annual Thanksgiving Day classic, the game with Bloomfield's old rival, Montclair, was won by the mountaineers, 7-0.

The caliber of teams that Bloomfield played and the large crowds that attended the games helped to make the 1929 season the best financially that the Athletic Association has experienced.

TRACK

Coach .....	ALBERT MCGALL
Captain .....	WILLIAM PIERSON
Manager .....	HARRY COOPER

The B. H. S. track team, the first one since 1921, took part in seven meets in 1929.

The first dual meet was with Orange and was won by a score  $48\frac{1}{2}$ - $33\frac{1}{2}$ . The relay team, consisting of P. Lawrence, A. Appleyard, H. Pierson and Doug Freeman, entered the Penn Relays but failed to secure a place. The second engagement was an invitation meet with South Side. The Red and Gray, although they did not place among the thirty schools represented, crossed the line in the upper half of the schools. The second dual match, that with East Side, was lost by the close score of  $33$ - $43\frac{1}{2}$ . The next meet was with Irvington and was lost by a score of  $41\frac{1}{2}$ - $48\frac{1}{2}$ .

In their next meet, against Glen Ridge, although Bloomfield took seven out of eight firsts in the sprints, they were defeated  $51\frac{1}{2}$ - $65\frac{1}{2}$ . In the state meet, the team, despite the fact that they did not place, showed up nicely, considering that it was the first year for track since 1921.

TENNIS

Coach .....	BENTON F. ALLEN
Captain .....	REGINALD WALRATH
Manager .....	JOSEPH SCHIEFERLY

Although it was only the second year for tennis at B. H. S. the 1929 Bloomfield High School tennis team emerged very favorably from an eleven game schedule losing only to Summit, runner up for the Class A title. Notable among its victories was a 4-1 triumph over Newark Prep, champions of Newark.

GIRLS' GYM TEAM

Since the opening of school in September the membership of the Girls' Gym Team has increased from forty-eight to eighty-four through the organization of a Junior Gym Team. The Senior Team meets on Wednesdays, and the Junior Team on Mondays. At present, the girls are preparing for a gym exhibition to be given in April, in which only Gym Team girls will participate. This will be the first time that all the girls in school who take gym have not been invited to take part, but because of the two lunch periods there would be no time for practice. Miss Russell knows from experience that after-school rehearsals are impracticable.

The Gym Team girls, however, are determined to make this exhibition as great a success as any previous one.

The Gym Team is a really unique organization. There is only one other in the state, and that is at Morristown, where one of Miss Russell's students is the physical training instructor.
